Detailed Summary of the Video

bootstrap is a framework that helps you make responsive websites look good to incorporate. it's just about everything we can do in our code here and import, or simply link them from the internet! this will help us create an image of your web page with more than one column on each screen so they have two different columns as well... but no matter how large these screens are now I know what other people want for their pages (and not anything else) there may be some problems getting into my own style when trying out new features like "the most important
